TASK DESCRIPTION:

Thanks for participating in this HIT!

DESCRIPTION: You are invited to participate in a research study on the psychology of personal opinions. The scientific findings of this study will help advance the field psychology. For each task, you will be asked to read a question about your opinions, e.g. whether or not you support a particular topic. This experiment takes most people around two minutes to complete. There will also be comprehension and attention checks. You may only complete this experiment once. Participation in this research is voluntary, and you are free to withdraw your consent at any time. The results of the research may be presented at scientific meetings or published in scientific journals.

TIME INVOLVEMENT: Your participation will take most people no more than two minutes.

PAYMENTS: You will receive $1 (about $20 per hour) as payment for your participation.

PRIVACY AND CONFIDENTIALITY: There are no significant risks associated with this study. Study data will be stored securely, in compliance with Stanford University standards, minimizing the risk of confidentiality breach. Your individual privacy will be maintained during the research and in all published and written data resulting from the study.

CONTACT INFORMATION:

Questions: If you have any questions, concerns or complaints about this research, its procedures, risks and benefits, contact the Protocol Director, Dr. Diyi Yang, at diyi@cs.stanford.edu.

Independent Contact: If you are not satisfied with how this study is being conducted, or if you have any concerns, complaints, or general questions about the research or your rights as a participant, please contact the Stanford Institutional Review Board (IRB) to speak to someone independent of the research team at 650-723-2480 or toll free at 1-866-680-2906, or email at irbnonmed@stanford.edu.
